QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
Kill your exam at first Attempt

HP

HP2-B103

HP Imaging and Printing Security - Technical

Answer: B

QUESTION: 49
What does the HP IPsec/Firewall enable administrators to do?

A. manage MFP front panel features from one central location
B. secure MFP internal hard disks
C. manage groups of imaging and printing devices from one application
D. encrypt and control the MFP's network access

Answer: D

QUESTION: 50
HP Color Access Control, disable RFU firmware upgrade, and the Jet Direct access control list are examples of what?

A. key phrases to listen for when qualifying your customer for security solutions
B. opportunities for a reseller to charge for each security implementation
C. device security features found in the home screen menu
D. device security features available in the HP Embedded Web Server

Answer: D

QUESTION: 51
How does using HP's Web Jetadmin aid you in administering a secure printing environment for your larger customers?

A. It allows you remote access to a customer's firewall so you can configure their network remotely.
B. It allows you to quickly administer device security setting across a customer's entire fleet of HP imaging and printing devices
C. It allows you to enable 802.1X authentication for your customers by acting as the client-to-network access server.
D. It allows you to watch network traffic to determine weak points in device security.

Answer: B

QUESTION: 52
Which network access method is used for printing on an HP Imaging and Printing device?

A. SNMPv2
B. LDAP using SSL
C. Kerberos
D. TCP/IP port 9100

Answer: B

QUESTION: 53
What is an access control list?

A. a list of settings that ensure authorization to features such as scan to mail, scan to fax and scan to folder
B. a list providing a way to lock out TCP/IP address connections
C. a list of color-restricted users sorted by group or application
D. a list providing a way to lock hardware ports on a device

Answer: A

Kill your exam at First Attempt....Guaranteed!